SUPERVISORS HOLD REGULAR MEETING

The board of supervisors met in regular session Monday, January 6th. 1919 ,at 10 a. m., there being present Dr. C. V. Thompson, presiding, T. L. Hickey, W. H. Brown, John MacBain and Jos. M. Francis.

The report of J. R. Eubanks, superintendent of the county farm and hospital, showed that he had cared for 53 inmates during the month of December, ten of whom were discharged, and one had died.

County Horticultural Commissioner Newton A. Peck submitted his report, showing that he had inspected 2411 trees and shrubs, seven cars of potatoes and 20 cases of strawberries.

Superintendent of Schools Roy W. Cloud appeared before the board and presented two petitions, one signed by the residents of the Burlingame school district and the other by residents of the Millbrae school district, asking for the changing of the school boundaries, so that a certain part of the Millbrae district might be taken into the Burlingame district.

The petitions were accepted, on motion of Hickey, seconded by Brown, and the hearing in the matter set for Monday, January 20, 1919.

J. May Barrows of Millbrae was granted a dance permit ,all the members viting "yes" on roll call with the exception of Supervisor Brown, who voted "no."

W. J. Graef, in charge of the squirrel extermination in the county, for the U. S. Health Department, submitted his report, showing his expenses during the month of December, 1918. The report was accepted and ordered filed.

The board, on motion of Hickey, seconded by Francis, voted to continue its appropriation of $500 a month for the next six months to assist in conducting the campaign against the rodents.

This being the time set for hearing the petition of Clinton and Gray, for a permit to conduct a hog ranch in the north end of the county, two and one-half miles southwest of the town of Colma, Mrs. D. E. Gray, wife of one of the owners, was sworn and testified as to the location of the proposed ranch and as to the facts contained in the petition. Following the testimony of Mrs. Gray, the board continued the matter until the next meeting in order to give the members an opportunity to make an inspection of the premises where the ranch is located.

A communication was received from Almon E. Smead of La Honda, organizer of what is known as the Fire and Sales Protective Association, telling about the plan for combating the forest fires in the county during the coming year and asking for the co-operation and assistance of the board.

The communication was received and filed, and on motion of MacBain, seconded by Hickey, the clerk was directed to write Smead and assure him that the board was anxious and willing to co-operate in every way possible in the matter.

The following additional offers of sites for the proposed new county hospital were received and ordered filed:

Mrs. M. F. Collins, Oakland, two acres of land in Laurel Terrace, west of Redwood City, price not stated.

Allen Meyer, 14 acres of land in Hillsborough Acres, adjoining San Mateo Park, price $43,000.

District Attorney Swart addressed the board and stated that representatives of the taxi men in the county had appealed to him to take up with the supervisors the question of the high rate of insurance charged by the bonding companies at the present time. The rate, the district attorney stated, had increased over one hundred per cent during the year, making the premium on the policies so high that many of the taxi people would be forced to go out of business.

The board, anxious to grant the taxi men relief against the high rate, and yet realizing that the latter must be covered in some way with insurance, decided upon the suggestion of the district attorney, to take the matter upder consideration and see what could be done.

In retiring as chairman of the old board, Dr. Thompson took occasion to thank the members for the courtesy shown him during the two years he had served, also the clerk o fthe board and his assistants for their services, and county officials for their co-operation and the San Mateo County Social Service Commission for the good work that it had done.

Deputy Clerk E. L. Falvey called the new board to order and called the roll, the members answering as follows:

T. L. Hickey, W. H. Brown, John MacBain, Jos. M. Francis and Dr. C. V. Thompson.

Nominations for chairman being in order Dr. Thompson arose and placed in nomination Supervisor MacBain. Supervisor Francis seconded the nomination and the supervisor from the Third Township was elected unanimously.

After taking his seat and thanking the members of the board for the high honor that had been bestowed upon him, Chairman MacBain announced the names of the new committees as follows:

Finance, Brown, Francis and Dr. Thompson.

Courthouse and jail, MacBain, Thompson and Hickey.

County Farm and Hospital, Hickey Brown and Thompson.

Supplies, Francis, Brown and Hickey.

On motion of Thompson, seconded by Francis, the clerk was requested to write Arthur R. Bloom of Harrison and notify him that he must comply with the county ordinance relative to the hauling of loads over the Pescadero to Tunitas road.

J. L. PIPKIN GETS JUDGMENT FOR $184 FOR LOSS OF COW

Judge Buck on Thursday rendered a decision in the civil action of J. L. Pipkin against Charles E. Grosjean, awarding plaintiff the sum of $184 damages for the loss of his cow. The case was appealed from the justice court of the third township some time ago. Judge Buck confirmed the decision of the lower tribunal. Defendant had a contract to paint a building adjoining Pipkin's and carlessly left some rags filled with paint where the browsing bossy could get it. She partook of the choice morsel and soon passed on to the animal kingdom. Mr. Pipkin contended that the painter was responsible for the demise of his cow and brought proceedings to recover damages. Both courts allowed him what he asked, to wit $184, the value of the animal.

A CHRISTMAS GREETING

From Cortland N. Y. Standard

Some years ago Ridgeway G. Rowley of Cortland, New York, was an editor on the Pacific coast and for some years was the editor of the San Mateo County Journal in California. Those were the days before the twentieth century rush took possession of everybody and everything. The editor of a weekly paper had time to prepare both editorials and news items with care. They could be models of literature, and the editor, if he had taste that way, could be both literateur and a poet. Mr. Rowley was both, and at different times The Standard has taken pleasure in quoting from both his prose and poetical productions. Now at this time we quote a Christmas greeting which is just as timely and just as true to these residents of the Empire state in the twentieth century as to the Californians in the nineteenth century. Mr. Rowley said:

"It is but meet the Journal should greet its kind and lenient readers with the warm welcome of a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year"—and, as we extend it to young and old, we can but count how many New Years' days have so far thrust us along into new years of life, which have all too soon grown old and gone into the great dead past.

"There is no memory so living green and beautifully fresh, as that of the Christmas morn of our childhood's days. We could almost wish, yea, we do wish, that we were back again on life's young journey, until the springtime of youth alone surrounded us. Freely could we spare the joyless harvest of age, for the rich bloom and perfume of our early summer flowers. Were our walk amongst them made perpetual, and these swift stalking seasons that bring the 'sere and yellow leaf' checked in their headlong progress, willingly, I think, would we surrender the busy hope and vain ambition of maturer years. The exulting joy of a child's heart as it wakes so early on the Christmas morn to find that merry old Kriss Kringle did not ride over the house last night; but, that he did really stop at our little chimney-top and come down its narrow and blackened flue—up which we have been peering for the last week in wonder how he could ever get down there, and sore afraid lest he might be compelled to leave his pack behind on the roof—while the big long stocking over the fire-place is so round and full, and over-full, with the merry gifts, has no parallel in these blast days of after life.

"Then what a season rolls between the coming of the New Year's days. It is as if the winter would never end, and spring-time came only because old winter had worn itself away with age and care; while summer followed upon spring so slow that even the early apples and pears hang green, yet coveted, all too long upon the boughs; while autumn itself is so far away it can never come at all. Not so now; years are but the briefest of seasons, while the revolving cycles turn so rast that they become blended togetner until the distinction of years themselves is lost. And whither hastens we also fast? Aye, whither! Let the idle moments of these holidays, when care and business are for the nonce laid aside, reflect a solemn answer."

REMEMBER!

How quickly we forget!

Only yesterday that long range gun opened fire on Paris and we feared the Hun had won. A few hours later the Germans swept through the battered lines with victory at their finger tips.

Then Chateau Thierry leaped to an unc[illegible]age in history when America race[illegible] to meet that roaring tide of death singing "The Yanks are Coming." Followed the beginning of the Yank offensive that was to roll on and on to St. Mihiel, the Argonne Forest, Sedan and turn the German flag to white.

Now we're discussing peace. Our troops are coming home. The edge of our enthusiasm is wearing off a little, the hurrahing is dying out all too quickly and business and dollars are getting up stream.

Those tragic days at the Marne are beginning to seem pretty far away. The thrills we had in the war news are becoming a bit hazy. We read an interview with the cocky, pouter pigeon slayer of Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt who wants to come to America and we realize that truly the war is over.

But we must not forget. Let us keep before us the deeds of our men who have put deeper color into the red of the flag, a new brilliance in the starry field and a purer white that betokens a hope for world peace. We must freshen our minds with memories of American service and sacrifice. We dare not forget.

Our service is not ended. Our job is not finished. In the memory of the deeds of the valorous Yanks, subscribing our part of the Victory Loan becomes rather a pleasure than a stern duty and in the meantime let us help hold their victories by holding our Liberty Bonds.

APPLIES FOR LETTERS

Delia Manildi has applied in the superior court for letters of administration upon the estate of Joe Manildi, who died on December 16, 1918. The estate consists of cash amounting to $6440.30, seven shares of Standard Oil stock, valued at $1800, ten shares of P. G. and E. stock worth $875. The estate exceeds the sum of $10,000 in value. Kirkbride and Gordon are the attorneys for petitioner.

SUPERVISOR J. MacBAIN NOW CHAIRMAN OF BOARD

John MacBain on Monday last received a well-merited honor by his associates on the board of supervisors when they unanimously elected him chairman of the board for the coming term. Mr. MacBain has been a faithful, industrious and painstaking official and has earned the honor conferred upon him by his long experience and loyalty to his constituency and the people of the county. His modesty did not permit him to seek the chairmanship, it was actually thrust upon him. He has been a member of the board of supervisors for ten years, during which time he has labored diligently for his district and the county. Owing to his long experience, practical knowledge and fairness he will make an ideal presiding officer, giving all a fair hearing and doing justice to the position. Mr. MacBain has a system of highways in the third township which is a credit to his administration, an attraction to home seekers and an asset to the county. Mr. MacBain has made an excellent supervisor and will be a successful chairman.

THE PASSING OF A GREAT AMERICAN STATESMAN

Theodore Roosevelt, the great American is dead. History will place him alongside the names of Lincoln, McKinley and the other noted presidents in the scroll of honor. It is true he made mistakes, but he was only human. Everyone admired him for his courage, for his outspoken convictions and fearlessness. No American was closer to the people than was Theodore Roosevelt. The hero of San Juan Hill will always be revered by the American people.

Mr. Roosevelt, while at the zenith of his battling years, proved in deeds that he was democratic. He fought effectively for direct primaries, for the right of the people to rule through the initiative and referendum, and for the recall of judicial opinions. He also fought, though in vain, for the right to fight in person on the fields of France.

No doubt Mr. Roosevelt's political popularity would be greatly enhanced if he led the first expeditionary troops to France, and no doubt Colonel Roosevelt knows this; but we do not believe that this is the thought uppermost in his mind.

There is no other American who looms up so large in the eyes of Europe. So far as moral effect is concerned, the appearance of Colonel Roosevelt at the head of a body of American volunteers in France would have a far more pronounced influence than the appearance of many times that number of American regular soldiers under the command of a less picturesque leader.

The Colonel did not go to France, but his sons went, and one is buried there and two others were wounded there. And now this interesting and valiant and many-sided sire of brave sons sleeps as a soldier might who has spent himself in many battles. But his contributions to the progress of his time will be a very noble monument.

REV. NICHOLSEN DRAWS BIG CITY AUDIENCES

During the week Mr. Nicholson has been talking to well filled houses at the Bell Theatre. Monday night was Congregational night; Tuesday, Methodist; Wednesday, Baptist; Thursday Women's and Friday, Sunday school. On Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons he has talked at the Congregational church to appreciative listeners.

There is to be no service Saturday night, but Sunday is to be a big day and every night next week. As a speaker Mr. Nicholson is appealing and as a preacher, unique. Illustrations could not be more clearly drawn nor stories more aptly put. A good song service always precedes the speaking. Hear Nicholson!

SONG OF THE WEDDING RING

'Tis only a golden circlet,
A little bright shining thing;
While truly that is all it is ,
They name it a "Wedding Ring."
Is it just because its pretty
That you wear it every day?
If you did not love the giver,
Would you wear it anyway?

Is it that you're proud and haughty
That you wear this ring of Gold?
No—but in your hearts deep centre
Doth some dearer treasure hold.
Don't you know the giver gave it
With a sentiment so grand?
Yes—you know the giver gave it
When you gave your heart and hand.

Thus we have this golden circlet,
A grand significant thing—
To bind two loving hearts as one,
The beautiful Wedding Ring.
Hence, while I'm living and loving,
And while my muse shall sing,
I'll sing a beautiful story—
The 'Song of the Wedding Ring.'

CALIFORNIA AND CALIFORNIANS

BY GENERAL JOHN F. SHEEHAN

Spanish and Mexican Governors of California.

Under the heading will be given a brief review of the principal transactions during the administrations of the Governors serving under the Spanish and Mexican regimes in California, covering the period from the advent of Portola in 1769 to the close of the administration of Pio Pico in 1846 (77 years) when the flag of the United States of America was raised over the custom house at Monterey. This era af three-quarters of a century of California history did not very much concern the rest of the world. Spanish and Mexican Governors came and departed, but the respective governments did not appear to be very much disturbed by occurrences in the remote country known as "California." During that period there were almost constant wars between the nations of Europe. Spain was still on the decline; Frederick the Great had laid aside his brilliant sword; an unprecedented, monstrous revolution had stirred all Europe, developing the greatest of soldiers and leaders of men the world has ever known, Napoleon Bonaparte. On the other side of the continent of America there was a successful seven year struggle for liberty—a great republic had arisen, which was to set an example in the administration of governments to all the nations of the earth. This new ntaion had acquired vast territory even to the very doors of the Pacific possessions of Spain. Yet Californians slept on, practically unconscious of the happenings in the rest of the world. But few of them were familiar with the name of the greatest patriot of history—George Washington.

Governors would come and governors would go, but isolated California was still in repose. So there is but comparatively little history to record during this period. In classifying the people dealt with, we shall refer to those of Spanish blood as Californians, to those of the United States as Americans and to other comers as from their respective nations.

Spanish Governors.

Gaspar de Portola—1769-70.—The first Governor's career in California was brief, and is covered by the chapter on Portola.

Felipe de Barri—1771-74.—The second Governor made his headquarters at Loreto, Lower California and never crossed the border lines now defined between the two Californias. Therefore Pedro Fages, the lieutenant who accompanied Portola, as military commandante of the upper country, was acting governor during the entire period until at the behest of Junipero Serra he as well as his chief were removed by Bucareli, the Viceroy of Mexico. In his disagreements with the President of Missions Fages was sustained by Barri, as is related in the chapter on Serra. Captain Riveri Moncada, who outranked Fages and was always jealous of him, applied to the Mexican authorities to be appointed Governor, but instead was selected to be Military Cammandante of the posts of San Diego and Monterey and therefore acted as Governor of California until 1777, when the new Governor Felipe de Neve arrived at Monterey. Father Serra had recommended the appointment to the highest place of Jose Ortega, the Portola sergeant who first reported seeing the bay of San Francisco, but the Viceroy deemed Ortega of insufficient rank. He was however promoted to be a lieutenant and stationed at San Diego.

Felipe de Neve—1774-82.—After his appointment as Governor, deNeve, loitered at Loreto until finally ordered to the post of greater promise, as Moncada's administration was neither satisfactory to the authorities of the Missions not to those of Mexico. Moncada had serious trouble with Captain Anza in 1776, as related. His was a disgruntled nature, and so discourteous and troublesome as to be at times considered half insane. He was, however, a well trained soldier. Under his authority as Acting Governor he conferred the first private land grant in California. It was of one hundred and forty varas square (equal to a large city block,) near the Mission at Carmel to a soldier named Manual Burton and his Indian wife Margaret. On the arrival of Governor de Neve Captain Moncada returned to Mexico, and being ordered to Arizona he was killed there by Indians in 1781. De Neve established the pueblos (towns) of San Jose and Los Angeles. He was a man of clear intellect and during his administration prepared a code of laws for the government of the pueblos. On his return to Mexico he was promoted to be General of Brigade and died as Governor of Sonora in 1784.

Pedro Fages—1782-90—On his return to Mexico in 1774 Fages was given prominent service in Sonora and Arizona and was commissioned to be lieutenant colonel. On assuming the duties of Governor of California his first act was the issuance of an order that no one should leave California without his permission. He made other stringent rules, such as fixing the prices of all articles sold in the province. Fages was essentially a soldier, and always maintained that the Missions should be subordinate to the military, although during his administration as Governor he displayed less hostility to the Mission Fathers than during his service while acting for Governor Barri. The breach between himself and Junipero Serra was somewhat healed before the death of the latter in 1784. Fages died in Mexico. Jose Dario Arguello was commandant at San Francisco at the time o fthe departure of Fages.

Jose Antonio Romeau—1791-92—This Governor arrived at Monterey in October, 1791, and served but six months. He was in ill health and died April 9, 1792.

Captain Jose Joaquin de Arrillaga—1792-94.—On the death of Romeau Arrillaga was commandant at Loreto and was selected to be Governor ad intermin by Arguello and others in charge at Monterey, which was confirmed by the Viceroy. He was detained at Loreto until 1793 and reached San Diego in March of that year. On inspecting the so-called coast defenses the Governor soon found practically none. There was but one worthless cannon at San Francisco and the ports of Monterey and San Diego were equally defenseless. Consequently he set about to construct fortifications at what is known as Fort Point, the first that resembled a fort in California. At this period the authorities of Mexico were disturbed concerning the vists to the coast of British and Russian vessels, and the Viceroy dispatched a ship to take possession of Bodaga Bay, north of San Francisco, which had been occupied by Captain Bodega Y Quadra in 1775. Governor Arrillaga returned to Loreto in 1794 and was succeeded by Lieutenant Colonel Diego de Borica—1794-1800.—When Borica took command there were 275 soldiers in the colony of California. Viceroy Branciforte was very energetic and displayed special interest in affairs on the upper coast. Captain Geo. Vancouver and Lieutenant Puget of the British navy had entered its ports, and some vessels of France had made their appearance, but Borica did not encourage the landing of foreigners, although he treated all such visitors with the courtesy which became a Spanish gentlemen. In 1796 Branciforte sent to California a military engineer named Alberto de Cordoba who proved a valuable aide to the Governor. There also arrived 72 Californian Volunteers commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Alberni and 18 artillerymen under Sergeant Roca. A portion of this force was located in San Francisco. At this time special attention was paid to the establishment of pueblos in the provinces. Santa Cruz was regarded as the most eligible site for a pueblo between Cape San Lucas and San Francisco Bay, and the town was given the name of Branciforte, in honor of the Viceroy. It was established across the San Lorenzo river from the business portion of the present city of Santa Cruz, and the Mission was alloted four square leagues of land.

The first poblidors (or settlers) arrived from Mexico on the vessel Conception on May 12, 1797, and consisted of nine men and eight women and children. The second party arrived in September following. They are reported to have been a miserable diseased lot of people, from the scum of Mexico; from hospitals and prisons, and the missionaries even refused to permit the unmarried men to wed their neophytes. The settlers were privided with horses, oxen, sheep, goats, agricultural implements and each man was armed with a musket. Engineer Cordoba prepared rude houses for them, even before the settlers arrived; (a town made to order in advance, as in the case of the City of Redlands nearly a century later, only the latter was managed by speculators to invite purchasers from the East of a far different class.) Cordoba constructed a bridge across the San Lorenzo, but the settlement was a failure from the first, and did nct in any measure compare with the pueblos of San Jose of Los Angeles, although San Jose did not bear the best reputation.

During this administration we find the first mention of the Cove of Yerba Buena, where the City of San Francisco was first begun, as vessels sought shelter there. Among the records of this period we find such distinguished California names as Alvardo, Amador, Carrillo, Estrada, Guerero, Noriega, Vallejo. After nearly six years residence in California, Governor Borica sailed from San Diego for San Blas on January 16, 1800, and died in Durango in July of that year. He is remembered in history as an able, kind and genial man.

SUIT TO PARTITION REAL PROPERTY

A. L. Dornberger and Victor Dornberger of Mayfield have brought an action in the superior court against Hugh Lamber Ross, John Ross, executors of the last will and testament of Thomas D. Ross, who died in Santa Clara county in 1915 and whose estate is in course of settlement in the probate court of Santa Clara county, and Alexander Peers, to partition the Lambert Dornberger ranch of 1239 acres of land near La Honda. The Dornberger Brothers own a one-third interest each in the property and Hugh Lombert Ross is the sole legatee of his father, Thomas D. Ross, deceased, and will nave distributed to him the other third interest in the ranch. He is a nephew of the plaintiffs, being a son of the late Mrs. Ross who was a sister of the plaintiffs. Alexander Peers holds a mortgage on the ranch, hence he is made one of the defendants. The Dornberger ranch is one of the best known properties in the Alpine district.

Judge Buck has appointed H. W. Schaberg inheritance tax appraiser of the estate of Walter Wallace Gray, deceased.

REDWOOD CITY MAN WRITES FROM FAR OFF FRANCE

F. Boos of 316 Phelps street, Redwood City, has just received a letter written from France by his cousin, Henry Boos, to the latter's parents and sister. Henry Boos went overseas as a yeoman on the U. S. S. West Galoc. He is a cousin of E. H. Browne, a local representative for the United States Laundry. The letter follows:

Nantes, France, December 11, 1918
—Dear Mother and Dad and Sister:

Just a few lines to let you know that we reached our destination all O. K. Let me tell you it was surely some trip and once over here I am satisfied. I will admit I was very anxious to make the trip, now I am satisfied to pull out whenever they say the word. I don't know what we all want any more, because at sea every one wants to get on land, then again when in port we all want to get to sea. I don't think I will ever be contented to stay in one place very long at one time any more unless I get over this idea of roaming all the time.

I will write about a few of the many happenings since leaving Philadelphia.

We left Philadelphia on November 20th at about 1 a. m. and everything went along pretty well, the first day, when all at once the fellows started to take down with the influenza. We had already transferred over half of our old crew on this account, so every one was quite sure there would not be any further trouble, but when it started it just went from one to another until we had to turn back to Philadelphia and send twenty more to the hospital.

These men were replaced by others so on Friday, November 22d, we started out again. The first two or three days out were fine but from then on until we reached here we had rough weather. What I mean, it sure was a fright. We hit a storm that drove us back for two days and what's more it simply wrecked some auto trucks we had on the decks. There isn't much more to tell about our trip more than the stormy weather. It wasn't so very cold, but the old wind did sure blow.

We landed at a place called St. Nazaire, located about forty miles from the mouth of the Loire river. We were anchored here for a day and then proceeded to Nantes.

If you get a map you can look up and see just where we are. Nantes is one of the most important sea port cities in France. It had a population o fabout 225,000 before the war but now I don't know what it is. They claim that 90 per cent of the men were killed from this city. From all appearances it sure looks like it. The women do all the store work and everything else here. Gee! it looks funny to see them go down the street pushing a big cart with a dog hitched up to it to help out. One doesn't realize what that war has done until you see some of the results, such as cripples, etc.

No doubt France has suffered a great deal from this war and if the United States hadn't stepped in when she did the Germans would have been masters by now.

There are a bunch of German prisoners working on all the docks and they are guarded by French and Americans. The Germans captured by French are taken care of by the French and the ones taken by the Americans are taken care of by us. Just to show the feeling of Germans toward Americans, when a bunch of them go away we do not even watch them. We asked if the prisoners would run away and the guard said you couldn't drive them away because they are treated so good.

Last night I had my first liberty here and had quite a good time even though I couldn't talk French. We only get from 4 p. m. until 10 p. m., so couldn't see a great deal. There isn't much to see in regards to beautiful scenery, but everything is so odd and old-fashioned that one can have a good time just looking things over. Oh, yes, we can get liquor here, but just light wines and beer. We have a great time using French money. The French people seem to have the idea that all the American sailors are full of money the way they soak us for things. Everything we buy they charge us about double the price. I would like to get some souvenirs, but on account of my financial circumstances I am afraid I would be unable to buy anything worth while.

They claim this to be one of the oldest towns in France and we had the pleasure of walking over ground that Caesar marched his army over years ago, also a great part of this city was built by the Romans and a whole lot of other that I haven't yet had the chance to find out. One of the boys took any number of pictures since we left, so will send them to you when I get back on the other side. I don't know how soon that will be because they have not started to unload as yet. They may send back the entire cargo for all we know. They have done that with any number o fthe ships that have come here from the States lately. From what I can see they have more junk here now than the whole of Europe will use in ten years.

Some ships have been known to lay around here for a week before they were unloaded.

We are not very far fram Paris and if I had the money I sure would put in for special liberty and go. There will be a big time there tomorrow on President Wilson's arrival.

Well, Mother, I want to write several more letters tonight so will say bye-bye for this time. In case you get this before Christmas I want to wish both you and Dad a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. There is no doubt but what we will all be together next year at this time, so we can celebrate the holiday then. Even though we will be unable to give each other presents this time I think we all got the best present of our lives the day the war was declared over.

With love and best wishes to see you all soon.

SON HENRY.

EXTRA EDITION

I put in a request for a forty-eight hour leave to go to Paris, and have just been told that it has been approved so tomorrow night I am going to leave for good old Paris. I will be there from Friday morning until Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock.

President Wilson is due to be there Saturday morning, so I guess I will see him. From what I have heard Saturday will be one of the biggest days Europe has ever known and that is saying a great deal. If everything goes along all O. K. until tomorrow and none of the boys come back to the ship drunk I will soon be on my way.

You have no doubt read about what is going to happen there.

I make the trip by night going but will return by day, so will have a good chance to see a great deal of France.

If you take a map of France you can look up and see just where we are. Love, HEN.

SAN CARLOS ITEMS

At the regular meeting of the school board last Tuesday evening Trustees Kendall, Haydock and Cowgill voted unanimously to accept the proposition of the State Organizer to consolidate our library with that of the county. The proposition of arranging with the Redwood City trustees to take all of our scholars above the fifth grade into the Redwood City schools that they may have the advantage of manual training, music, domestic science, drawing and other advantages provided by the larger schools was gone into, but definite action was deferred until the board can meet with the Redwood City trustees at their next regular meeting.

Mr. Ralph W. Ames, field representative for the Ellison-White Chautauqua Circuit, was in our little city last Wednesday for the purpose of enlisting the interest of our citizens in this very important and laudable work. It is the purpose of Mr. Ames to engage all of our most active workers as solicitors to dispose of season tickets for the coming season and it is to be expected that every one will lend all the help possible.

Four of the Quinn family have been confined to their home the past week with the "flu." Mrs. Mary E., the Misses May, Eileen and little Edith. But under the care of Dr. Gregory and Mrs. Quinn's sister, Mrs. Louis La Place, of S. F., they are all reported as doing nicely at this time.

Mrs. J. W. Buel has gone to Hayward for a visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Mary L. Farnham, City Librarian, has returned from an extended visit with friends and relatives in Bakersfield, the hot part of the state.

Miss Genevieve O'Brien who became so popular with the young set during her residence of a few months was here to call upon her many friends last Sunday.

Mr. L. Coulter, foreman for the C. C. Morse company, at their trial gardens here has moved into the new bungalow just recently completed by Wm. Knowles, one of Oakland's contractors. Mr. Knowles has done a great deal of construction work for the Morse people in different parts of the state.

Mrs. Amanda B. Walwer, postmistress at Santa Margarita, Cal., was one of the first members to remit her annual dues to state secretary Cowgill. Cowgill is not at all surprised at this for he has been an advocate of women suffrage since he first voted for it in the centenial state many years ago. It is to be hoped the men postmasters of California will follow Mrs. Walker's example and save the secretary the trouble of sending out notices dunning the many reminding them of their delinquency.

PUBLIC WELFARE WORK

Under this heading the Times-Gazette will publish weekly, articles furnished by the San Mateo Conference of Social Agencies, dealing with Public Welfare Work.

NO. 1

The war has taught everyone the need for Public Welfare Work.

Who in our community is living under conditions, mentally, spiritually, physically and socially below the standard of decent, wholesome human existence? This question has become a more personal one to each and every one of us; and the second, what can I do to understand sympathetically and help those, especially the children, who do live below this standard?

There are organizations in this county working for these ends, and we hope through these articles to tell of their activities, and awaken the interest of the voters of the county to a more active sense of individual responsibility.

The men as well as the women should be alive to these problems and respond to the duty of county affairs. A well-known writer on Social Welfare, has recently written, "There is no greater danger ahead of us in social work than sex solidarity. You cannot afford to hand the nation over for its redemption to the women of the nation, any more than you can hand it over to the men alone. Let us have team work in San Mateo county.

Community Councils.

During the reconstruction period Community Councils are to be organized in the near future in all parts of the United States. These will afford a wonderful opportunity for the discussion of all the questions of social and economic interests, and for bringing the people of each community into closer touch. Units will be formed throughout the county and large cities will probably be divided into districts.

Every man and woman will be eligible to membership. "Democracy is built and will never go forward except on lines of highly developed local activity. The free will of the individual participating in public affairs is the only way of democratic progress." And it would seem that the Community Council will afford just this opportunity.

The Community Councils will be organized throughout San Mateo county during the month, and local branches will be formed in the various communities.

It is hoped that all citizens will take advantage of this old-fashioned Town Meeting with a new name, and help develop Community interest in Welfare Work.

MENLO PARK NEWS OF ALL SORTS

Doings at Peninsula Garden Spot As Told in Breezy Style By Our Reporters

Mrs. Mary Simmons, mother of Mrs. James Blaine Logan, passed away in San Francisco on Thursday of last week after a short illness with influenza. She was a resident of Easton at the time of her death. The funeral took place on Tuesday last. The remains were held for a long time to enable her son to arrive from an eastern training camp. Mrs. Simmons was a native of California having resided in San Francisco for many years. She was universally liked and admired.

Major J. F. Devereaux has leased the Thomas Gregory home in the Coleman tract for an indefinite period. The major is connected with the Presidio in San Francisco. His family is delighted with Menlo Park The major spent some time last year at Camp Fremont. The Gregory home has just been vacated by Charles Hosberg, a prominent official of the Southern Pacific company. Mr. Gregory is now with Herbert Hoover, the food administrator in Europe as his legal adviser. Both are Satnford men.

The Moose Club will give a card party next Wednesday evening in its club rooms in the Menlo Park hotel. There should be a large attendance on that occasion as the card parties given by the club are always enjoyable affairs.

Wilbur E. Lee, secretary of the local Moose club, passed away at Providence hospital in Oakland, Sunday last.

Wilbur E. Lee, formerly organizer for the Moose in California and recently secretary of the Moose lodge at Menlo Park formed for the benefit of the soldiers at Camp Fremont. Lee left Menlo Park Christmas day to spend the holidays with his parents in Oakland and soon after his arrival in the transbay city, was taken ill. He was removed to the Province hospital, where he passed away Sunday morning at 5:25 o'clock

Lee formerly was employed as organizer by Harry Millspaugh, district supervisor for the L. O. O. M., for the Pacific coast. In that capacity, he helped organize San Mateo lodge and secured many members for the local organization. When Camp Fremont was established, he founded the soldiers' lodge at Menlo Park and became its secretary.

Lee was very well liked here making many friends during his brief residence. His winning ways and genial character made him numerous friends among the men in uniform. He leaves a wife and daughter in Oakland.

Telegraphic instructions were received from Washington yesterday countermanding all previous orders concerning the salvaging of the camp and changing the date for the abandonment of the camp from January 31 to the early part of March.

No reason was given for the order aside from the change in the plans for the disposition of the remaining standing buildings which will be sold intact under the new instructions, instead of theing razed and sold as lumber.

The new policy will necessitate the calling for bids on the buildings and will delay the abandonment of the camp. Approximately two-thirds of the structures, including mess halls, tent forms and company warehouses, have been torn down and the lumber stacked for removal. The salvage work will continue uninterrupted on the remaining tent forms and small buildings.

Another reason not known is that the Presidio is becoming crowded with soldiers from the front. There are not sufficient accommodations for them and it is believed the government will send many to Camp Fremont. Many invalids are arriving daily from France to the base hospital.

There is a movement on foot among the wealthy property owners of Atherton to improve Atherton avenue by planting a uniform variety of trees on both sides of the popular thoroughfare. E. S. Heller has already begun setting out a nice variety of shade trees. All realty owners along the avenue will be asked to do likewise.

Charles Davis has arrived home from France where he participated in many battles at the front. He was twice wounded and gassed once. He still feels the effect of his wounds. Young Davis was in the last engagement of the war. His mother lives at University Heights. Young Davis is naturally proud of his chevrons on his natty uniform.

Miss Bessie Mason, the popular teacher in the Colma school department is quite ill at her home. A young lady friend is substituting for her in the school.

Samuel Shortridge Jr., is very ill at his parents' home here. His brother, John is also sick. Young Sam's temperature was quite high yesterday. He is attended by a professional nurse.

Harry Weeden is able to be around after a severe illness caused by influenza. He had a hard struggle with the dreaded disease but was able by his rugged constitution to baffle its efforts.

Fremont theatre will present a splendid bill this evening and tomorrow. William S. Hart wil lappear this evening in "Shark Monroe." Everyone should see this picture. Manager Fitzpatrick is doing all he can to please the public. More power to his elbow.

Archbishop E. J. Hanna has appointed Father John W. Sullivan, formerly a teacher at St. Patrick's Seminary, a member of his council. The council is made up of several prominent priests of the archdiocese. It is a signal honor to anyone receiving the appointment. Father Sullivan is the rector of Mission Dolores parish in San Francisco. Father Sullivan is recognized as one of the ablest pulpit orators in the state.

Mr. Ernest Hastings who has been employed as a salesman here by the Shell Oil company for the past six months passed away in Palo Alto Wednesday after an illness of a week with the influenza. The funeral was held yesterday, the interment being in Gilroy. Mr. Hastings was a very fine young man and had a promising future. He was married and his wife who was Miss Ruby Taulbee, a teacher in the Daly City school, survives him. She has the sympathy of her many friends in her bereavement.
